Eric Tamminga is Iron Embers' owner, founded in 2011 with his two brothers. His background as a mechanical engineer and working in the automation field for several years have been significant assets in getting Iron Embers running efficiently.

Iron Embers manufactures premium wood-burning fire pits and outdoor living accessories. All products are built locally at their facility in Guelph, Ontario. So keep yourself warm with a chiminea or grill up some fresh food with a BBQ grill on their Octagonal Cottager—they have you covered.

All Iron Embers products, from fire pits to BBQ grills and vinyl tarp covers, are made in-house. They pride themselves in product value, hold very tight control of product quality, and offer an unmatched 10-year guarantee on every item sold. Iron Embers strives to build quality products they can proudly stand behind! Iron Embers looks forward to seeing the company grow and establish leadership in North America's premium fire pit and outdoor living industry. In addition, they plan to expand Iron Embers' offerings with more complementary products and increase distribution across Canada.

Guruasish is a hiking enthusiast who discovered his love for curating adventures while exploring the Himalayas and the Bruce Trail. He enjoys exploring new food joints and trail finds and watching nature documentaries. Guruasish is a dog dad to Murphy, the Chief Paw Officer, and a husband to Jagminder, an invaluable asset to the business.

Trek Nirvana is a Guelph-based travel design agency and community of outdoor adventurers. Passionate about seeking authentic and sustainable travel experiences, exploring local culture and heritage, connecting with new people and discovering indigenous art and cuisine. Trek Nirvana started as a community of outdoor adventurers and nature-preneurs. Since then, they have become a TICO-certified, brown-owned small business based in Ontario.

Tours have a particular focus on culture, food, and hyper-personalized experiences. Trek Nirvana believes in crafting a personalized vacation and has guides and hike leaders who can curate the same for you on-ground. “As someone who thoroughly enjoys travelling and being out in nature, I wanted to start something to help others find their nirvana outdoors. Trek Nirvana’s purpose is to reconnect people with Mother Nature, help to plan incredible vacations and make travel more sustainable!” Trek Nirvana is working on a plan to promote tourism and other small businesses in Guelph. They are constantly working on adding more local adventures to the list, creating BIPOC-friendly guided hikes, and crafting a bike tour in Vietnam.
