Short Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

The property located at 7697 Wellington Road 36, Puslinch, meets the requirements for designation prescribed by the Province of Ontario as it meets five of the nine criteria prescribed by Ontario Regulation 9/06 under the Ontario Heritage Act.

The property, Lot 31, Rear Concession 9, has cultural heritage value due to its close association with the settlement of the McLean family, who emigrated from Scotland to the Badenoch community. Furthermore, the property carries cultural heritage value due to its evolution from an 1880s three-bay limestone farmhouse with a side wing to a two-storey farmhouse in the Edwardian Classicism style as an excellent representation of architectural efforts spanning the late 19th century to the early 20th century.

Design Value:

The property contains the McLean farmhouse is an outstanding representation of a two-storey L-plan residence that was expanded from the original 3-bay limestone cottage form with a side wing between 1914 and 1920. The original cottage form is evident in the lower right side and small wing with arched windows and doors with limestone voussoirs and large stone sills and coursed tape pointed limestone masonry. The side of the wing is more rubble limestone with a smear and strike style pointing while the rear of the wing is a mix of limestone and in split-faced fieldstone with limestone quoins. The elements of Edwardian Classicism are simply articulated with strong classical elements which is evident in the left side two-storey addition and second floor over the original cottage characterized by the belcast hip roof leading to deep eaves, large concrete lintels over flat arch windows and doors, tape pointed broken coursed masonry and smooth shafted columns with voluted capitals and limestone pedestals supporting the large, on-grade verandah.

Historical /Associative Value:

The property was initially acquired by Peter McLean in 1833 with other Mclean family members acquiring two other adjacent lots. Subsequently, Donald A. McLean assumed ownership of the land, and during the late 1800s, undertook the construction of the original three-bay limestone farmhouse with small wing. The left side and upper level over the original farmhouse was later added between 1914 and 1920. The expansion into a two-storey farmhouse in the Edwardian Classicism style is an example of the prosperity of the McLean family in what was the current architectural trend of the time period. Carl Bousfield has owned the farm for a number of years, inheriting it from his father who bought it in 1944, and has given it continuous care and pride of ownership.

Contextual Value:

The property is among other properties that played a crucial role in establishing the Badenoch community. It is in part one of the Scottish residences constructed during the mid-1800s. Moreover, it shares a significant connection with some of the earliest settlers who contributed to the formation of the Badenoch area.
